

Retirement is Never an Option in the Spy Game

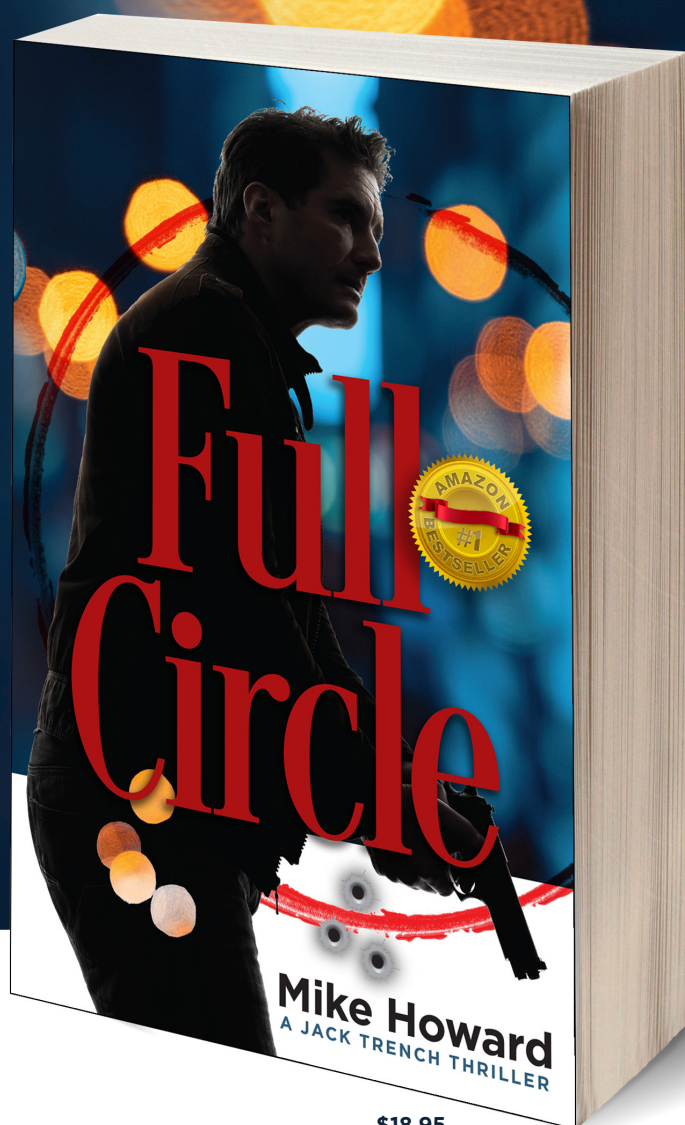

Jack Trench spent a lifetime killing terrorists for the CIA. He was a born operator with street smarts and the physical skills to take out the most dangerous enemies the US faced. Jack and his CIA team—The Watchers—were the most effective counterterrorist organization in the world. But after decades of undercover work in the most dangerous and darkest places on this planet, Jack was done. His dark were over.

Or, so he thought.

A phone call brings Jack back into the spy game. Someone is coming after his old team, critically wounding one and landing him in the ICU. Now Jack is out for revenge. And as the clues start emerging as to who might be behind the brutal assault, the team must reunite one more time to take on a lethal foe. A foe they thought no longer existed.

They were wrong. Once again, it's kill or be killed.

Jack Trench is about to find out, in life, things can go full circle!
